Copyrights and Permissions

The FAFP Website contains information, software, photographs, graphics and other materials collectively known as "content." Unless otherwise noted, the FAFP reserves full title and ownership of all. Content is protected by copyrights, trademarks, and other intellectual and property rights and all rights are reserved. The FAFP disclaims any liability to any party for the accuracy, completeness or availability of any FAFP content or other material or for any damages arising out of the use or nonuse of any FAFP content. The FAFP is pleased to grant permission to use or reproduce copyrighted material in accordance with our current guidelines. In some cases, fees are applicable. The following links describe our guidelines and the process for requesting permission.

LINKING GUIDELINES

What if I want to link to the Academy's site?

We believe that links ought to be made based on their merits. If you feel linking to our site would benefit your audience, feel free to do so, following the guidelines listed below.

- Except where authorized, no FAFP material may be downloaded onto your server or anyone else's server and may not be used in any electronic format.
- No FAFP content may be framed within any borders, banners, or other visual images other than those placed by the FAFP itself.
- The link is an external one in that the FAFP URL is visible in the address window.

- The link should not be presented in such a way it might be perceived as a sign of the FAFP’s endorsement of any website or of the content within.

PERMISSIONS

Educational Use

Content on this site is copyrighted. You may print materials from the FAFP’s web site for non-profit, educational purposes only, under the terms and conditions of the definition of “fair use.” Proper attribution, including a notice of copyright, must be included on all copies. Abiding by the principal factors of fair use, one can utilize a portion of a copyrighted work “as is” for purposes of non-profit research and education. Appropriate credit of the source is required. The use of embedded third party copyrighted works, or portions thereof, for any other purpose is not deemed fair use.
